

Editorial	Seite 3
Determinants of auditor fees at German companies
Audits are playing an increasingly important role in the era of globalisation and capital market-oriented companies. In order to gain new insights into the current state of research, Patrick Arndt, M.Sc. examines the branch of industry as a potential influencing factor in addition to the determinants of audit fees identified in previous studies	Seite 4
Operational Controlling in KMUs in Bavaria
The main point of the operational controlling is to guarantee the general efficiency and effectiveness of a company. In this paper, Stefan Ehrnböck, B.A, MBA will analyze the operational controlling in Bavaria	Seite 12
Influence factors for non-aeronautical revenues at airports:
A critical literature review focusing on departures duty free-stores
Mag. (FH) Thomas Hinterholzer gives an overview of existing literature with regards to influence factors for non-aeronautical revenues at airports	Seite 20
The German healthcare market in transition – digital workflows during surgery
The German hospital market is characterized by scarce resources and process-related financial reserves. Digital workflows during surgery could have a beneficial effect on quality and performance ratios. Benjamin Lahmann, M.A. analyses the current state of research	Seite 32
Corporate Venturing Performance Measurement
Empirical insights
Collaborations between corporates and start-ups become more and more important. In this research Steven Rottmann, M.Sc. presents empirical insights into the evaluation of CV collaborations during the collaboration phase	Seite 42
Literature References	Seite 56